SBA introduces self-regulation in the area of Sustainable Finance

New minimum requirements for integrating sustainability criteria into investment and mortgage advice

- The Swiss Bankers Association (SBA) has issued two guidelines stipulating minimum requirements for integrating sustainability criteria into investment and mortgage advice.

- On the one hand, the new guidelines govern the inclusion of sustainability preferences and risks in investment advice and portfolio management. On the other hand, they encourage mortgage providers giving advice to clients to consider long-term value retention, and consequently the energy efficiency of the building to be financed.

- The new guidelines are binding on SBA members. Non-members can adopt the guidelines on a voluntary basis. Both guidelines come into force on 1 January 2023, with various transition periods granted.

- With the new guidelines, the SBA strengthens Switzerland's position as a premier hub for Sustainable Finance and makes an effective contribution towards the transition to a sustainable economy.

As the umbrella organisation of the Swiss banks, the SBA actively lobbies for the framework conditions for sustainable financial products to be continuously improved. Industry initiatives play a key role here. A good example is the new self-regulation introduced in the area of Sustainable Finance. “In future, sustainability will be an integral component of advisory sessions with clients,” says SBA CEO, Jörg Gasser.

For the first time, the new guidelines define binding rules for integrating environmental, social and governance (ESG) criteria into investment advice and portfolio management, as well as considering energy efficiency when giving mortgage advice. “In doing so, the industry is making a concrete and important contribution not only towards the achievement of the Paris climate goals, but also to the common goal set out in the Federal Council's financial market policy to establish Switzerland as a premier hub for sustainable finance,” Jörg Gasser adds.

Sustainability integrated into client advice

Drafted by members, the new guidelines affect all SBA members. They are therefore the result of a broad consultation process supported by the entire banking industry. The new self-regulation is binding on all SBA members and comes into force on 1 January 2023, with various transition periods granted for the necessary preparations to be made. The SBA offers member banks information materials and specialist workshops to support the introduction of the new guidelines. Non-members can also adopt the new guidelines on a voluntary basis.

The new guidelines will be regularly reviewed in light of ongoing market developments and will be updated and expanded as and when necessary.
